THOMAS DAILY opens office in Frankfurt's Nextower

THOMAS DAILY, the news and data specialist for the German commercial property market, is expanding in Frankfurt. The company, which is part of CoStar's European group, is leasing nearly 400 sqm office space on the 30th floor of the Nextower on Thurn-und-Taxis-Platz 6. Advice on the lease was provided by blackolive, member of the German Property Partners (GPP) network. The Nextower is owned by a fund of DWS.

"Frankfurt is one of the key commercial property markets in Germany – Europe's largest economy," says Matthew Green, Managing Director of CoStar Europe. "It is important to us to be present there with our own office."

"We have already expanded our sales team in Frankfurt and as well as accommodating this growth, the new permanent space will allow us to focus even more on customer service. Additionally – and for the first time - we will be able to deploy content teams directly in one of the key markets for our TD Premium product," says Annette Schätzle, Country General Manager Germany at THOMAS DAILY.

THOMAS DAILY

THOMAS DAILY was founded in Freiburg in 1991 and was one of the first information services providers for the commercial real estate market in Germany. Since 2016 the company has been part of CoStar Group, Inc. with over 4,000 employees and more than $1bn in annual revenue, making it the largest provider of real estate data worldwide.
